WINDSWEPT '85

While your dreams are only stars
In the summer sky,
Keep them in this secret place,
Each smile — each tear you cry,
But don't forget to hope for more
And wish that more might be.
For some day soon a shooting star
May bring reality.

When you wish upon a star,
Makes no difference who you are.
Anything your heart desires
Will come to you.
If your heart is in your dream,
No request is too extreme.
When you wish upon a star,
Your dreams come true.

The Yearbook Staff and the Graduating Class of 1985 Dedicate This Issue of Windswept to Our Star: Mr. Ronald Hoffman.

We appreciate your service and devotion to all of us at Manistee Catholic Central.

Thank you for being our coach and our teacher, as well as our friend.

More valuable
Than many a leather-bound volume,
Illuminate
The corners of my mind.
Rather than leading,
Point out the path,
And I believe I will find
A way to change the world.

Leadership Shines

Leadership, talent, unlimited devotion, and the willingness to share personal time are but a few of the qualities exhibited by the priests, school board, co-administrators, faculty and support staff of Manistee Catholic Central. Responsibility for the existence and operations of M.C.C. is placed upon these caring individuals. Without the effort of these fine administrators and the faculty, M.C.C. would not be the quality institution it is. With the help of parents and the entire Catholic community, what might be an impossible task for them becomes a reality. Due to the persistent efforts of all these fine individuals, Manistee Catholic Central is a school of which to be proud.

Tomorrow: A Vision Of Hope For Graduates

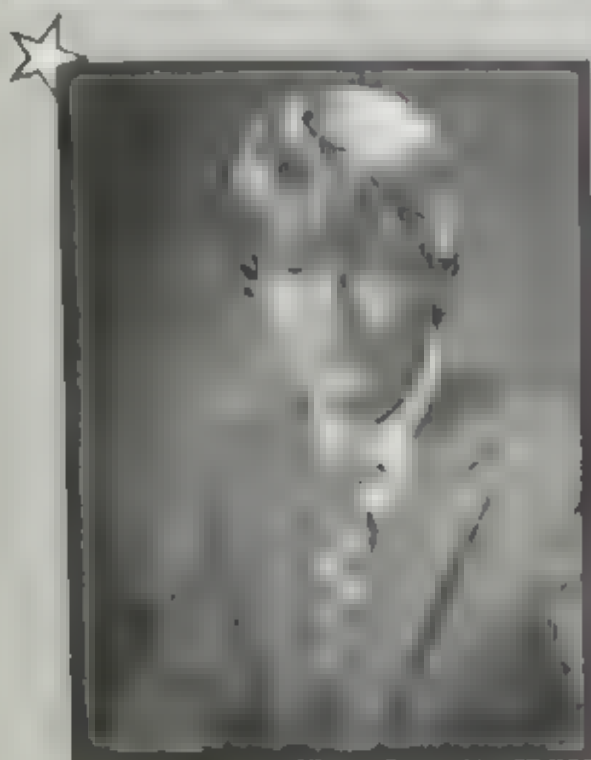

One thing that the class of 1985 found out during their last year of high school is that being a senior isn't easy. Charles Dickens may have summed up this school year best when he said, "It was the best of times, it was the worst of times." While they had their whole senior year ahead of them, they were also busy making their future career and school plans. This was a constant reminder of the upcoming "good-bye." Graduation was something that was looked forward to with anticipation as well as apprehension. No matter how high the expectations for their futures were, they all knew, deep down, how much it would hurt when they would all have to go their separate ways. One thing, that will always live on in each class member's heart is the memories that were shared together. A class trip to Mackinac Island in the eighth grade, painting the city of Chicago red in the tenth grade, and going to Detroit to root for the Tigers in the twelfth grade are some of the care-free times they spent together. A yearly occasion that had been special for all was the Homecomings they celebrated together. Each senior would probably agree that their last Homecoming was the best since they took first place in both the float and skit competitions. Being able to claim those two awards made the class feel as if it was truly their Homecoming. After the excitement of Homecoming died down, it was time for the seniors to try to put their minds on their studies. It is difficult to say whether even one member of the class did not ever hear himself say, "I can't do this homework! I've got senioritis!" Now, as they look back, they can see how quickly time went by, and the end of the year was upon them. Their last prom, senior dinner, class night, and graduation were final breaths of being high school students. There were good times, and bad times, but through all their high school years the class of 1985 can say they gave their best.

Yesterday
is already a dream,
and tomorrow
is only a vision.
But today, well lived,
Makes every yesterday
a dream of happiness and every tomorrow
a vision of hope.

Senior Class Retreat Emphasizes Togetherness

The annual Senior Class Retreat was held at the Au Sable Trails Environmental Institute during the first weekend in November. For two days, the class was divided into small groups and held discussions on acceptance and togetherness. At the end of the second day, the entire class came together in a large group sharing their thoughts about one another and realizing how unique each person really is. Father McCracken brought the retreat to a close by celebrating mass with the class.

Parents Express Their Best Wishes

On June 4, the Seniors of 1985 gathered together in the cafeteria as a class for one of the last times. It was the night for the traditional Senior Dinner when the seniors, their parents, the clergy, co-administrators, and faculty shared a chicken dinner catered by Mr. Dan Hogan.

Following the dinner, the guest speaker, Mr. Thomas Grange, a former teacher at M.C.C., and salutatorian, Craig Skiera, addressed the seniors.

After the speeches, the teachers and co-administrators presented various awards, acknowledging the accomplishments of the seniors.

A New Beginning For The Class Of '85

On June 8, 1985, the senior class gathered together for mass and their commencement ceremony. Although it was hard to realize, this day was the last day that the class of '85 would be together as a group in quite the same way.

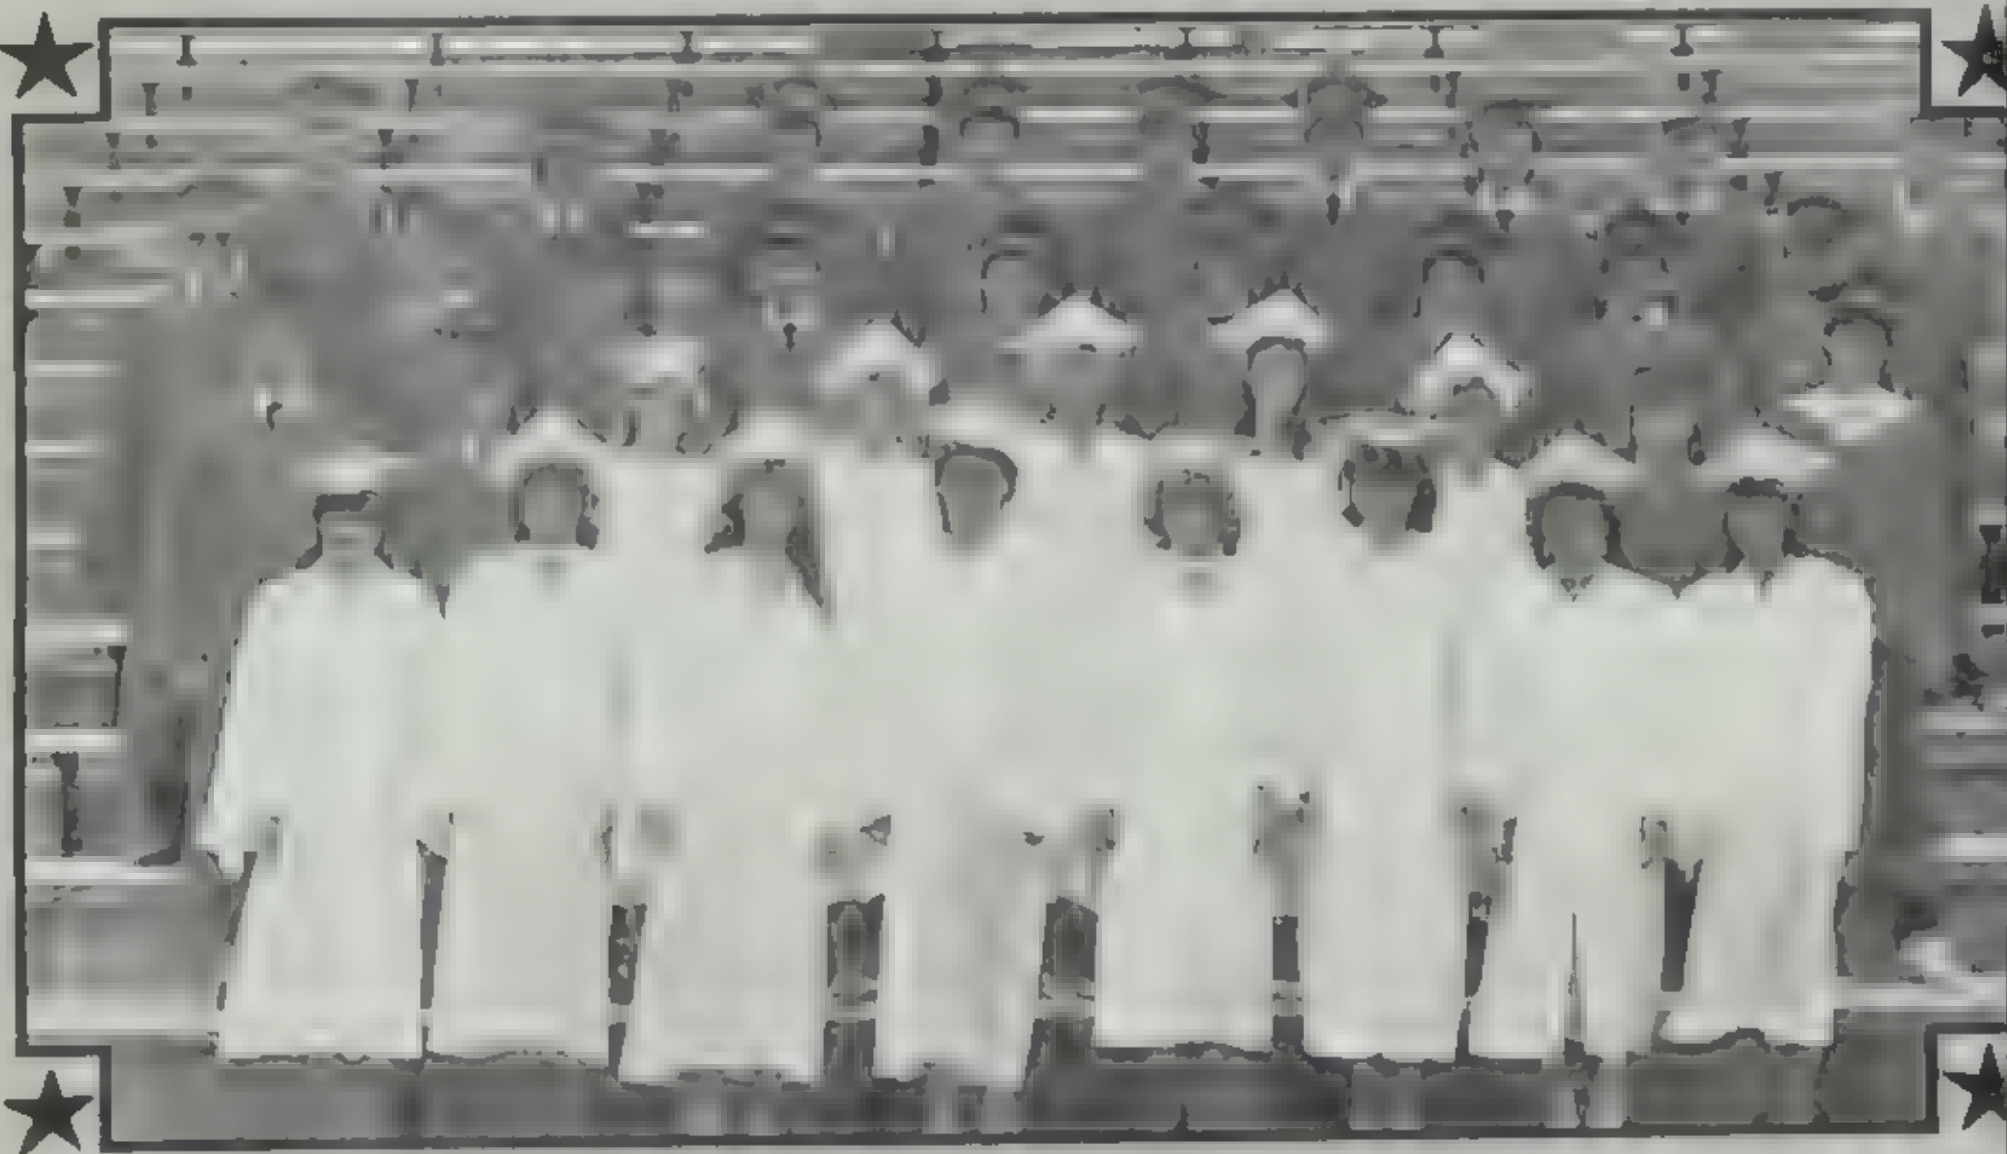

With the senior girls dressed in white caps and gowns and the senior boys dressed in red, the Graduation Mass began at two o'clock and was celebrated by Bishop Rose. Monsignor Jude, Father Gardner, Father Roczen, Monsignor Guzikowski, and Father Duhoski assisted at this very special occasion. The introduction to the mass was given by John O'Hagan; then the scriptures were read by Mike Miller and Chris Kubaeki. The music was provided by the St. Joseph Choir and the Ramsdell Theater Youth Choral, under the direction of Mr. Joe Fortin.

After the homily by Bishop Rose, the petitions were presented by Chris Kubacki, Sandy Chycinski, Kadie Worm, Debbie Brzezniak, Kevin Krause, and Leon Sorenson. During the offertory, the seniors presented their mothers with a red or white rose.

After mass the commencement ceremony began with a welcome from the salutatorian, Craig Skiera.

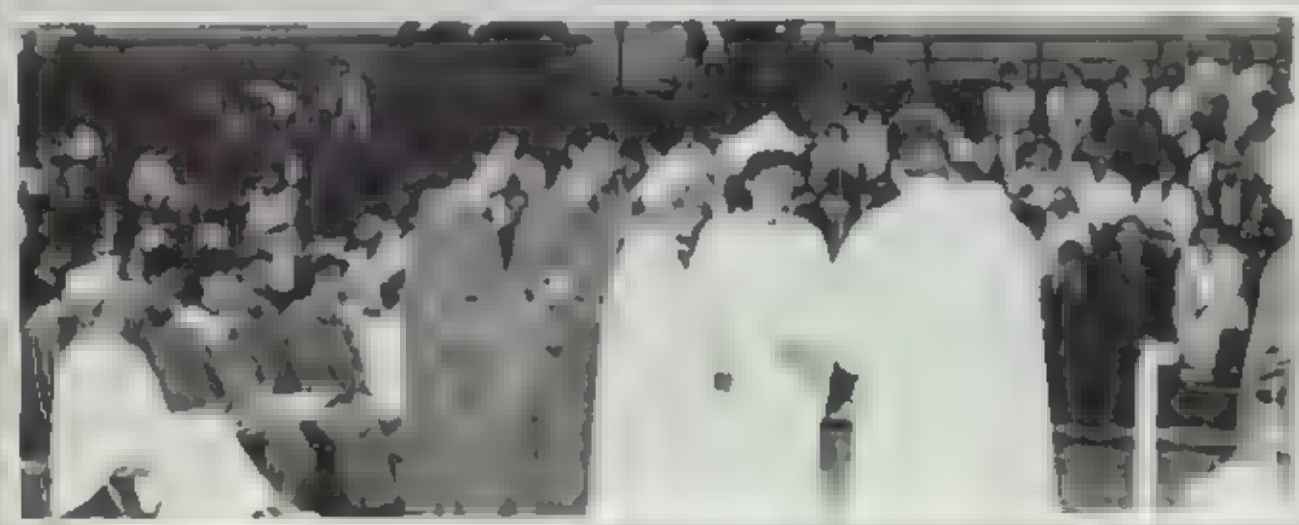

followed by a speech from the valedictorian, Dursa Kamaloski. Finally the long awaited moment approached as the pastors of each parish called the name of every graduating member of his parish family and handed him or her a diploma. The seniors graciously accepted the long awaited diplomas representing four long years of hard work, memories, tears, laughter and struggle. Not one of them didn't wonder what the future would bring, as they knew that document represented an ending as well as a beginning in their lives as the Class of 1985!

Class Night

On May 31, the seniors presented their traditional class night program for parents and friends. The skits, designed around a television theme, ranged from game shows to modern video programs. Among the skits were "Name That Tune," and "MTV." Classmates were in at least two skits.

Juniors Have Style And Class

Led by president, Tim Swidorski, the class of '86" energetically entered what is said to be the most financially difficult year, the junior year.

Monies for class projects, which included a homecoming float, the Sadie Hawkins dance, and Prom, were raised by serving Wednesday's hot lunches, working at bingo, sponsoring dances and holding a lottery.

The class has grown in maturity and a spirit of togetherness over the past few years and is anxiously anticipating an excellent senior year here at Manistee Catholic Central.

The sophomore class is proud of itself and should be. They are one of great spirit and togetherness. These characteristics were displayed during Homecoming when they raised enough money to build their float which, in return, gave them a second place award. Class unity was expressed and felt when they received their rings in October. Hopefully this togetherness will continue, as they progress through sports, academics, and fund raisers, until their final days of high school and graduation.

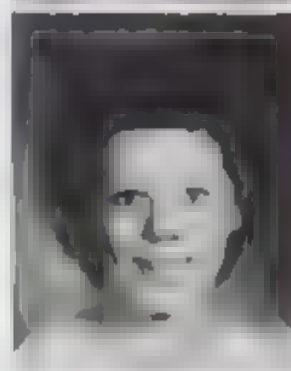

Looking back, this year was definitely a successful and prosperous year for the entire class of '87'.

Freshmen Start Off Right

The class of "88" had many new exciting experiences as first year high school students. Homecoming didn't pay off in awards as well as expected, but the class used the effort as a base for improving their talents.

The class was well represented in the areas of sports and band. The boys participated in golf, wrestling, basketball, baseball and football. The girls participated in tennis, basketball, track and cheerleading. Many students achieved good grades and were on the honor roll. As they unite through their highschool years, they will strive to be the best class possible. All in all their freshman year was a success.

Eighth Grade Rising Higher & Higher

The eighth grade, class of '89, has Saber spirit. This was shown best during Homecoming. The class tied with the juniors for second place in the skit competition, and working very diligently with the seventh grade, the junior high took a third place with their float entitled "Saber Spirit Will Rise." Like their theme, eighth grade pride and spirit has risen and will continue to do so in the future.

Seventh Grade Has A Good Year

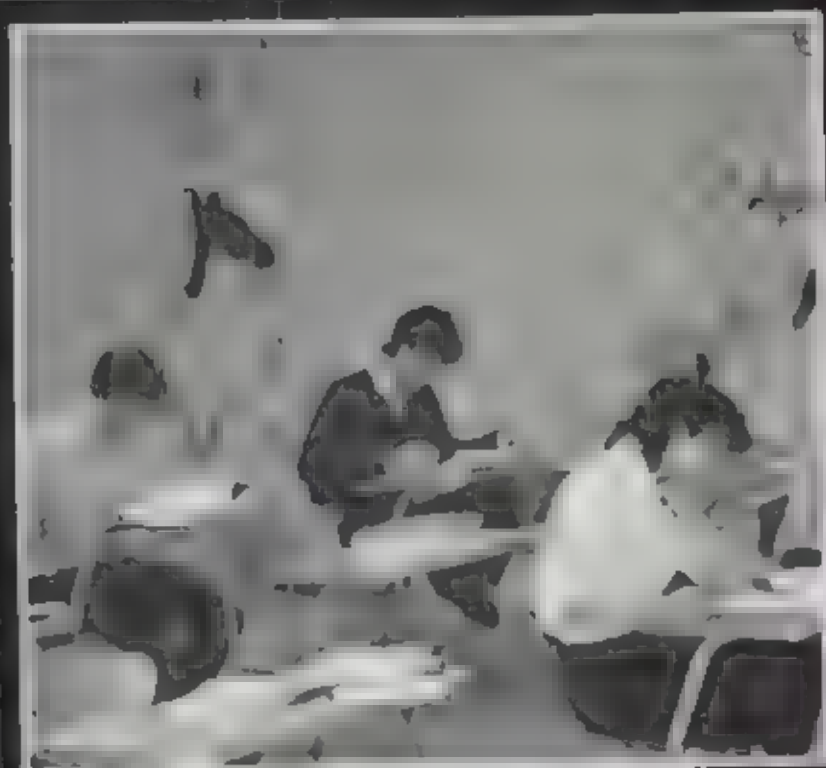

The seventh grade experienced a big change in going from elementary school to the junior high. The new teachers, responsibilities and increased homework required great adjustments.

The students helped build a third place float, were involved in fund raising projects for the benefit of the school and worked hard all year to improve their skills. As a class, they grew in Christian maturity. All in all it was a good year.

ACADEMICS

 As food and ink meet paper,
 Secrets and smiles
 Exchanged at inappropriate

 And sometimes,
 Confusion,
 But mostly,

Religion — Understanding Faith

As Christians, faith plays an important part in each student's life. However, believing in that faith is not enough, he must understand it as well. This would be impossible without the help of two religion teachers, Mr. Nethercott and Mrs. Paulik. They are a great help when it comes to preparing for Friday's masses, planning class retreats, and organizing prayer services. Because of them, each person has the opportunity to grow in the understanding of his faith as it takes on new meaning in his life. God is no longer a mystery, but instead a reality.

Art/Drafting Creating For The Future

Dimensioning plans for future housing and designing tomorrow's art are just a few of the activities in Mrs. Dursum's and Mr. McGlynn's art and drafting classes.

During art classes, students at M.C.C. begin with basic drawing in junior high so that by the time they reach high school, they are given the opportunity to work in small groups in areas of particular interest. Silkscreen printing was one of the most popular activities this year.

Drafting gives students the opportunity to develop simple objects and shapes into workable plans or prints. The architectural class does all of the above and also concentrates on the details of residential house construction. Both classes give students the knowledge to create for themselves in the future.

Mathematics Takes Hard Work

Mathematics is one of the most useful and fascinating divisions of human knowledge. It helps students in many important areas of study and in their everyday lives. Math at MCC includes many different subjects ranging from pre-algebra to pre-calculus. Students study the size, shape, and position of figures, deductive reasoning, conic sections, logarithms, and sine and cosine laws. At all levels, math requires a great deal of concentration and hard work.

Science is a subject that opens the doors to a whole world of possibilities. Because it is an everchanging subject, students at MCC get their chance to contribute to the world of science through the study of new terms and experiments. Also, they have the opportunity to participate in the annual Science Fair held each spring during Catholic Schools Week.

English: A Universe Of Learning

The English language is an important part of a person's life. The English courses here at M.C.C. are readying their students to face a world where it's imperative to have reading, writing and vocabulary skills.

During the school year English classes engaged in a variety of activities to enhance these skills. For example, the research class went on its annual trip to the West Shore Community College library where students got resources for their papers. English Literature students read Macbeth and wrote critiques on English novels.

Most juniors and seniors wrote compositions for the Voice of Democracy contest.

The sophomore speech classes were once more in charge of the Sports Awards assemblies where they acted as M.C.'s. They also announced for the winter band concert and for the elementary Christmas program.

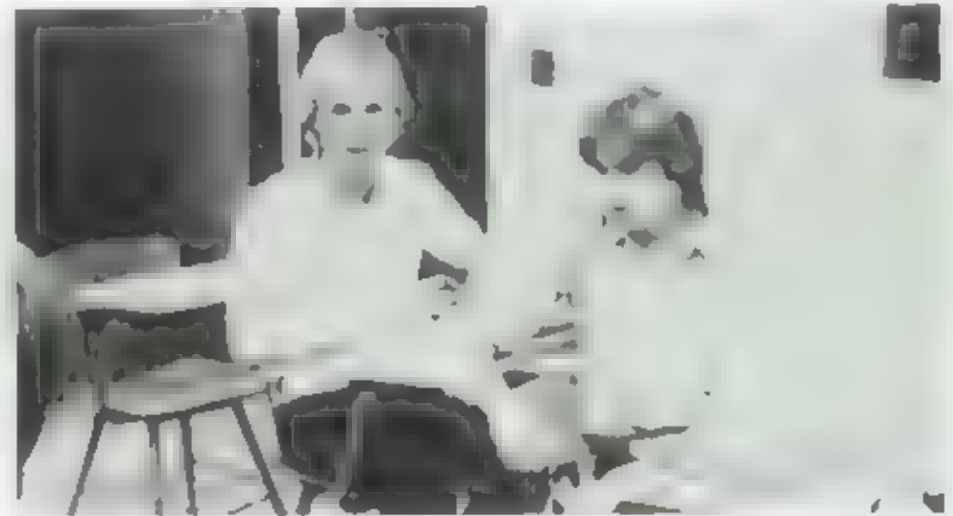

English offers students the opportunity to develop their own literary styles.

New Classes Join The Galaxy

From "Bonjour" to "Adios!" this year's students had the opportunity to add to their schedules three new curriculum offerings which are French and Spanish, taught by Sr. M. Alexis, a teacher who was new to the students, but not new to M.C.C. The other new class, taught by Mr. McGlynn, was applied economics, which was sponsored by junior achievement. It was important for M.C.C. to once again offer foreign language since it is rapidly becoming a requirement for college entrance. Special assignments in the classes were listening to tapes, singing songs, and having conversations in a foreign language. The purpose of applied economics was to show the students the relationship between the theory and practice of economics. Throughout the semester students had the opportunity to use computer software to prepare trial prices and budgets and to project profits and productivity. These new offerings proved to be useful classes for any student.

Business & Computers — Preparing For The Future

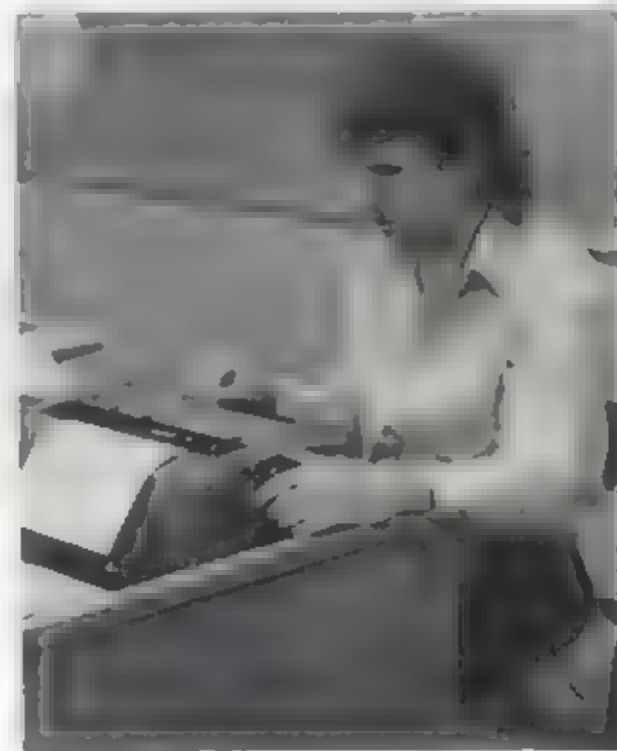

With the arrival of new teacher, Mr. Philip Bernard, the business department once again prepared students for business and life in a rapidly changing world. By studying Typing I and II, accounting and general business, students prepare for possible careers in the business field and learn to write checks, maintain a budget, fill out income tax forms and type neatly and accurately, all life skills needed in America's technical society.

As teacher of the computer classes, Mr. Roger McGlynn is concerned that students become aware of the rapidly growing computer age. In his classes, students are taught basic programming, how to read flow charts and how the operation of a computer takes place externally and internally. As students begin to develop an understanding of the basic language, their knowledge of the subject becomes more and more expanded.

Social Sciences — The Past, Present, And Future

Learning about the government, studying maps of foreign countries, and examining the economy were some of the interesting and often fun activities students faced in Mr. Niesen's social science classes. Probably the most enjoyable activities were the mock trials held by the government classes. The students acted out imaginary roles and by doing this learned about the judicial system. Each of the American history classes then viewed the videos of the trials and decided the verdict.

Occasionally, current event games were held. In these students tried to answer numerous questions about present day situations. Some of the topics included the arts, science, and war and peace. All of these classes helped each student to understand how the world was, is, and will be in the future.

Helping Children Is Fun!

The students in Psychology I study needs, personalities, defense mechanisms and self images. One of the main concepts that the class teaches is, "Success is movement toward a self chosen worthwhile goal." To follow up on this concept, students set personal goals and look at who they are and where they are going. Some students have chosen to use these ideas in Child Development. This is a course which allows high school students to experience the joys and frustrations of working with others, teaching them, and noting their progress. Students may become role models and partners with teachers.

A new, two-semester class, Psychology II, replaced marriage class during the 1984-85 school year. Students studied positive motivational attitudes, goal setting, loss and healing, death and separation, and the stages people go through psychologically while experiencing stress.

Course work in the second semester emphasized love and marriage. Four days a week were devoted to the study of concepts of a successful marriage, problems incurred in marriage and ways of handling conflict. One day each week "couples" concentrated on simulated marriage situations including the wedding ceremony itself and decision making assignments such as making a budget.

Off-Campus Classes: Satellites Of M.C.C.

For a student who is involved in any of the four off-campus classes — health, physics, clerical, and automotives — time flies like the speed of light. Students taking these offerings have no regular lunch hour. The clerical class introduces its students to a variety of typewriters and other office equipment. Later in the year, clerical students are sent to businesses for internships which give them work experience. The automotives class covers all the basic mechanics of an automobile. The students spend three days a week doing classroom study and two days a week working on a car. Although students must do much shuffling of their schedules, the rewards from any of these classes are out of this world — well worth the effort.

Classroom Band: An Aura Of School Spirit

Hard work, dedication, and devotion are just a few of the many factors that go into making a good band.

Mr. Meyers, who has been M.C.C.'s band director for the past twenty one years, sees a lot of promise in the younger children, who begin band lessons in the fourth grade. If they continue to study music, they may someday be good enough to perform at the State Solo and Ensemble Festival, as have Jennifer Kubanek, Pam Gregorski, Kathy Nethercott, Jennifer Bladzick, and Doug Hanna this year. Getting to State is not easy, as one has to get a first division rating at the District Solo and Ensemble Festival first. Mr. Meyers is very pleased with those students who went to State in 1985 because they are the largest number of students who've achieved this excellent level of performance in recent years.

Competition for chairs is strong in this fine arts part of the M.C.C. curriculum; yet rivalry among the students is absent and seems to have been replaced by a very mature pride in personal achievement and a quest to be as good as each one's capabilities allow. Each student realizes that in order for a band to exist, there must be a last chair as well as a first.

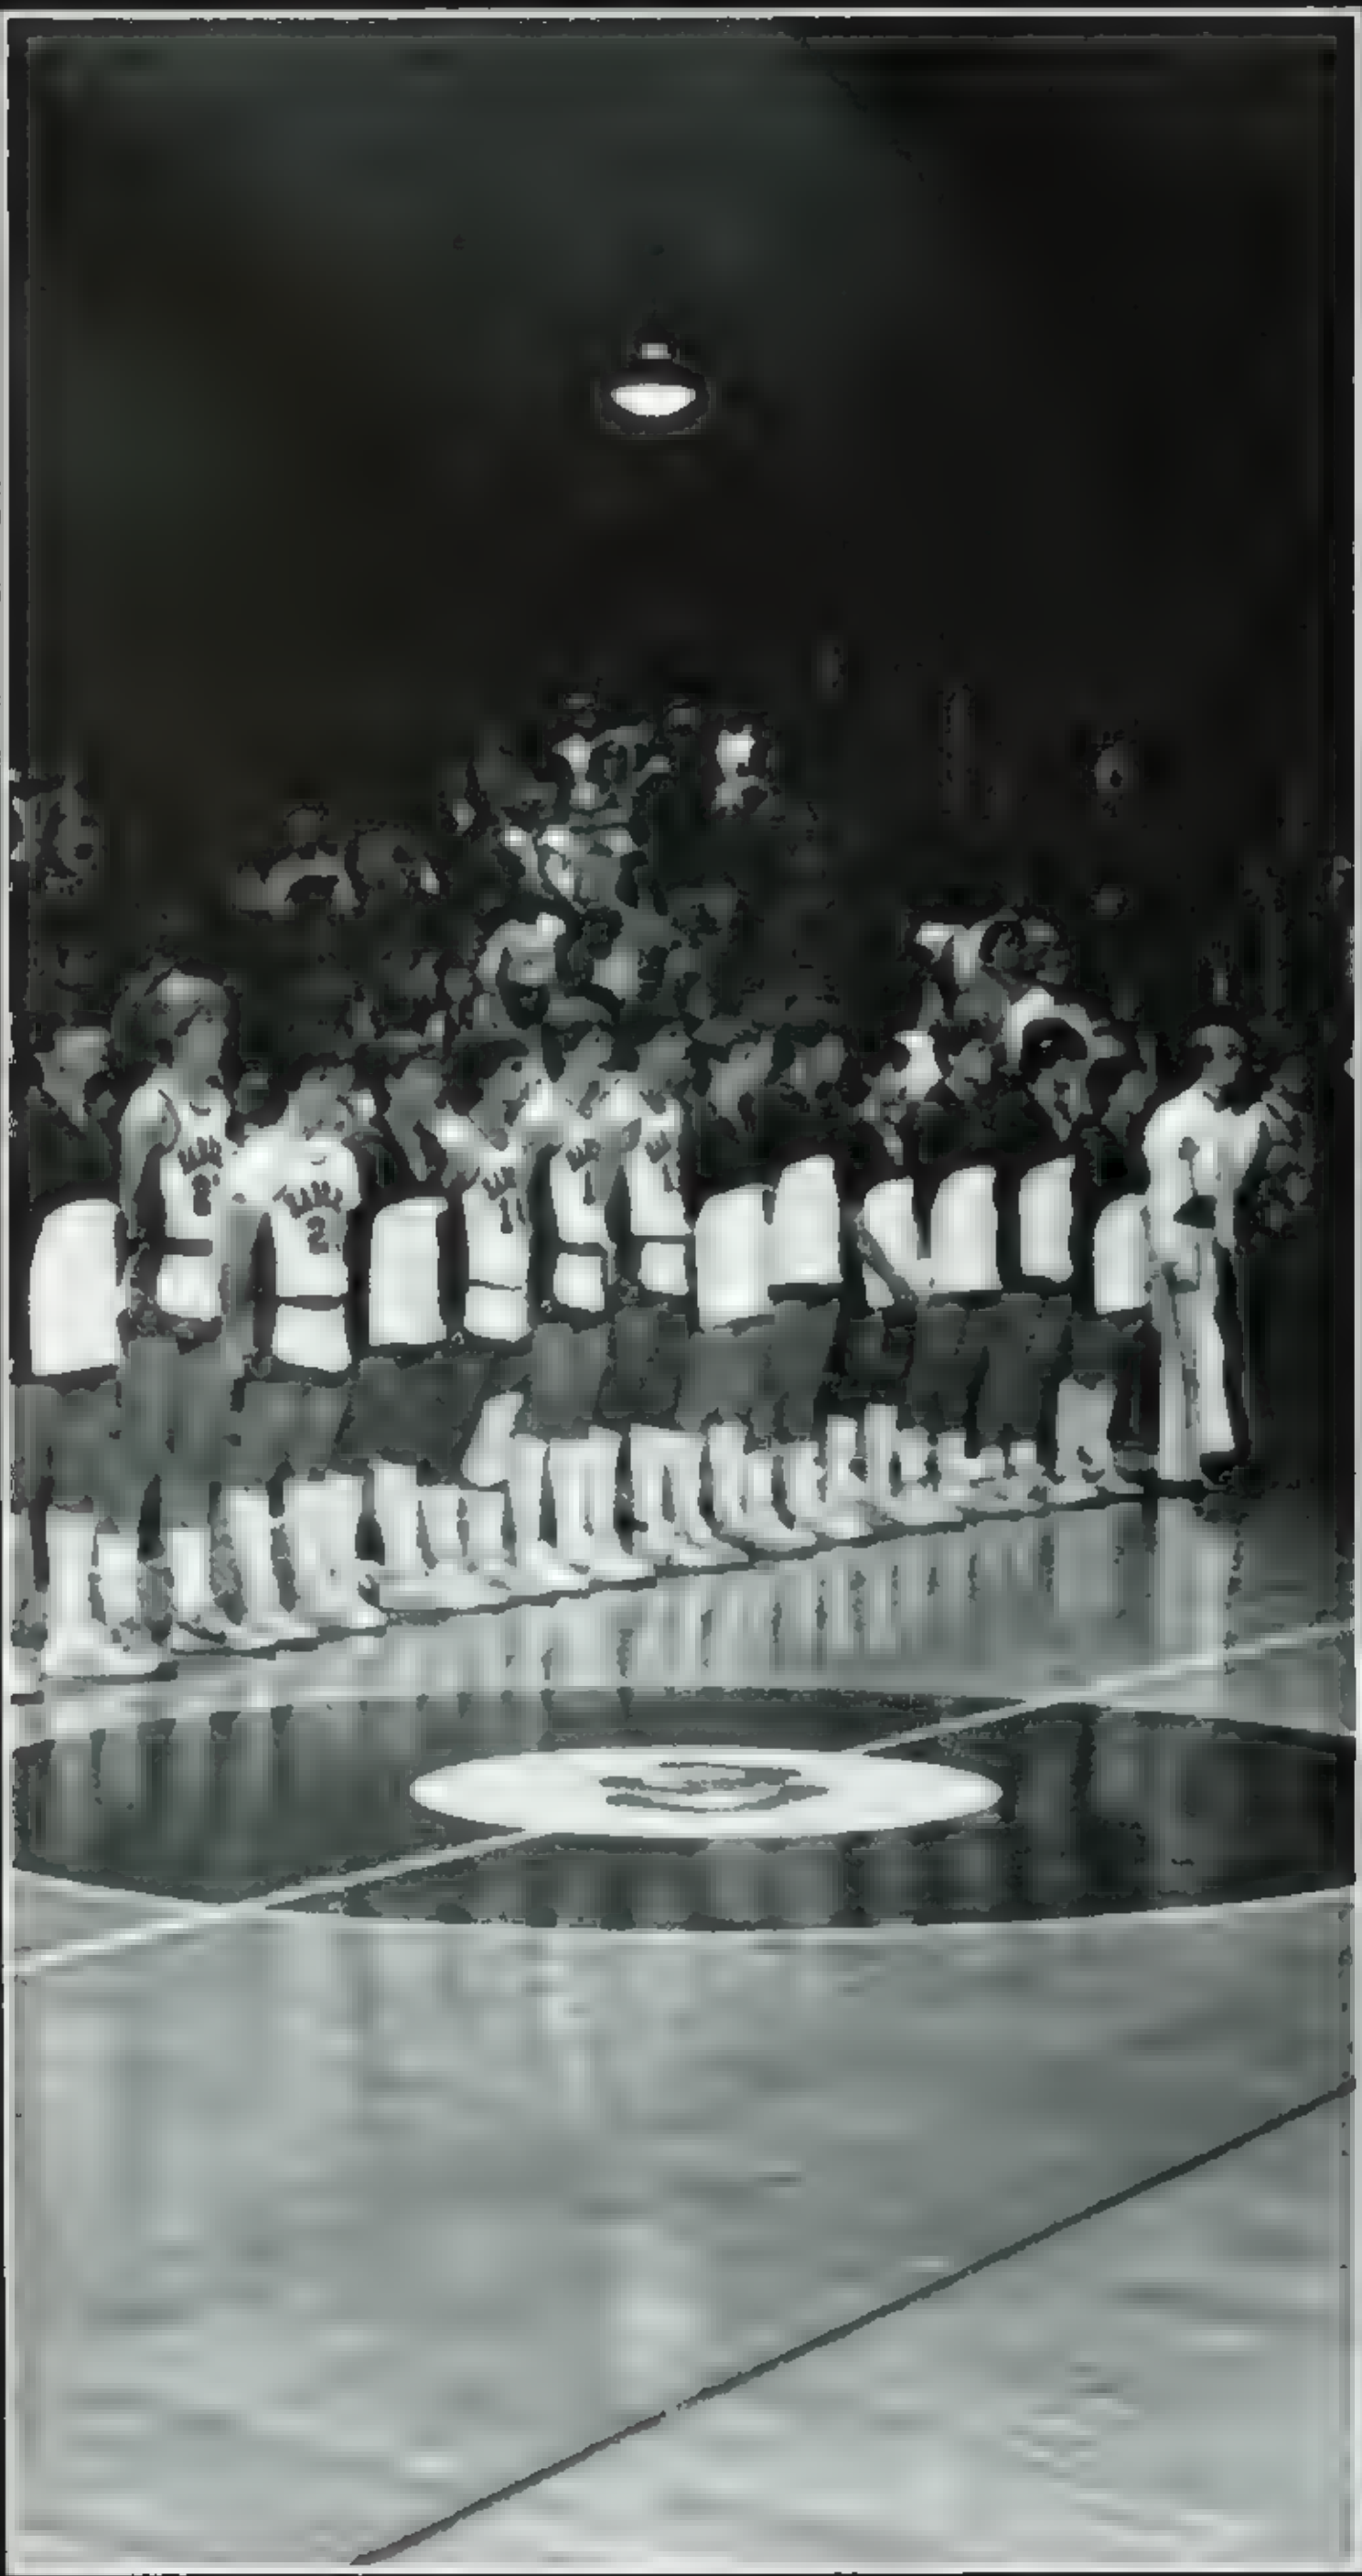

According to Mr. Meyers, the objective of band class is to present as wide a spectrum of musical experiences as possible. This involves being a part of, and supporting, all aspects of the school and community. All in all, band has added that extra touch of spirit a school needs in order to be number one.

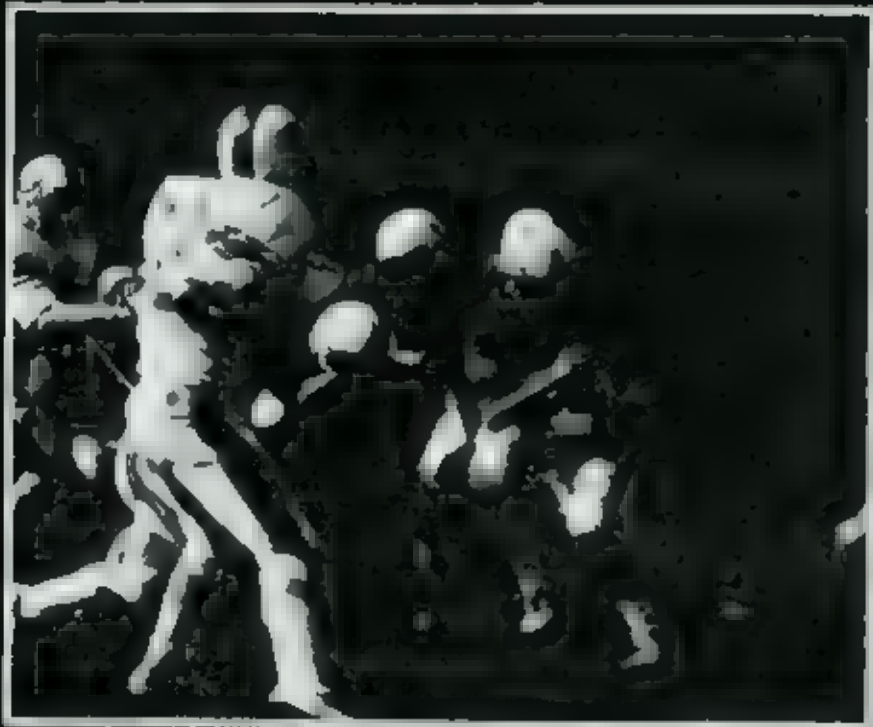

Below left, band members concentrate on reading the music in front of them. Below, band members sight read a new piece of music.

The MCC Golf Team under new head coach, Roger McGlynn, recorded an undefeated season and won the class D Regional Championship for the fourth consecutive year and, thus, earned the right to travel to the State Final Class D Championship at Webberville. There they placed sixth while competing against some strong teams from throughout the state.

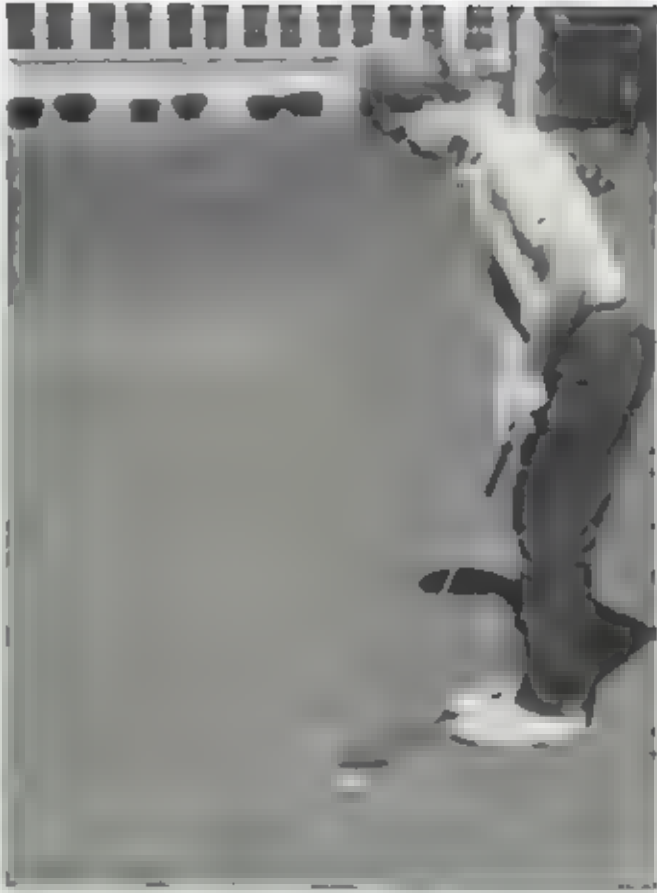

The five starting team members represented all grades in the high school and posted some very fine individual statistics. Senior co-captain Leon Sorenson carded a 41.14 average for the year while senior co-captain Jeff Bladzick ended his career with a 44.64 average. These two fine golfers will surely be missed in the future. Junior Tim Swidorski finished the season with a 45.21 average. Sophomore Jason Bialik led the Saber golfers with an outstanding 39.07 average and Freshman Gary Swidorski completed his first year as a Saber golfer with a fine 46.85 average.

Reserve players for the Saber golf team were juniors John Hendricks, David Kamaloski, sophomore Jason Sinelli, and freshman Neil Asante. They were faithful in practice and are expected to contribute much to the team in the years ahead.

Pride and determination can work wonders. A good example of this was displayed by the Saber football team. This year's squad, averaging twenty points offensively while only allowing eight points per game defensively, put together some very impressive statistics against strong teams including some in classes B and C.

Excitement filled Catholic Central when the boys ruled off five straight victories, putting them on top in their region for a berth in the State playoffs. However, two tough losses in the last four games of the season left the team a game away from the playoff picture, and the loss at Baldwin prevented the guys from becoming the first champions ever of the newly formed Big Sky Football Conference.

The team started the season with a rookie coaching staff but proved in a hurry that they wanted to get experience with victories rather than defeats. Head coach Steve Duchon, a former alumnus, wasted no time in finding assistants that bled the same

Besides all-state recognition the Sabers filled seven positions on the All-Conference first team and ten positions on the first team all-area squad. The all-area selection committee named coach Steve Duchon and his staff as "Coach of the Year." The team received excellent leadership from the senior players. These people have set the groundwork in bringing back the strong and respected program for which Saber football has been known.

mination to win seemed to fizzle out towards the end of the season as they finished almost breaking even with a 9-11 record before tournaments.

However, playing like the champions they really were, the girls' basketball team exploded on the court during tournament action. Making history, the varsity team won the three district games and became Class D District champions. In regionals they played against the Buckley Bears and finished the year with a 54-58 loss. Congratulations, girls, for a superb season! We'll be looking forward to next year's Saber girls who will again come alive in '85."

The 1984 Girls' Varsity Basketball season came to an exciting and proud end as the team captured the Class D District title, a first in the history of girls' basketball at MCC. The girls played three teams in the districts and came out on top in all three contests. Starting with the Brethren Bobcats and winning with a score of 60 to 50, they next played the Baldwin Panthers, taking the game by a score of 63 to 33. The final game of the Districts was between the mighty Sabers and the Freesoil Pirates. Urged on by crowd support and the "wave," the Sabers won the contest 53 to 48, coming off the court with smiles and tears as they became the much deserved Class D District Champions. The girls went to Regionals in Reed City to meet the Buckley Bears but were defeated by a close score of 58 to 54. All in all the Sabers' season was a smashing success and one the girls can be proud of for years to come.

Talent Overcomes Inexperience

Starting off with four straight losses might have been enough to discourage any team; however, the girls' junior varsity basketball team rebounded from the 0-4 start to take nine of the final sixteen contests and finish the year with a 9-11 record. To do this they used the gutsy performances of the freshmen, who were new to high school basketball, a strong bench, and a few key experienced sophomores. The Sabers finished the season by taking four of their last five games.

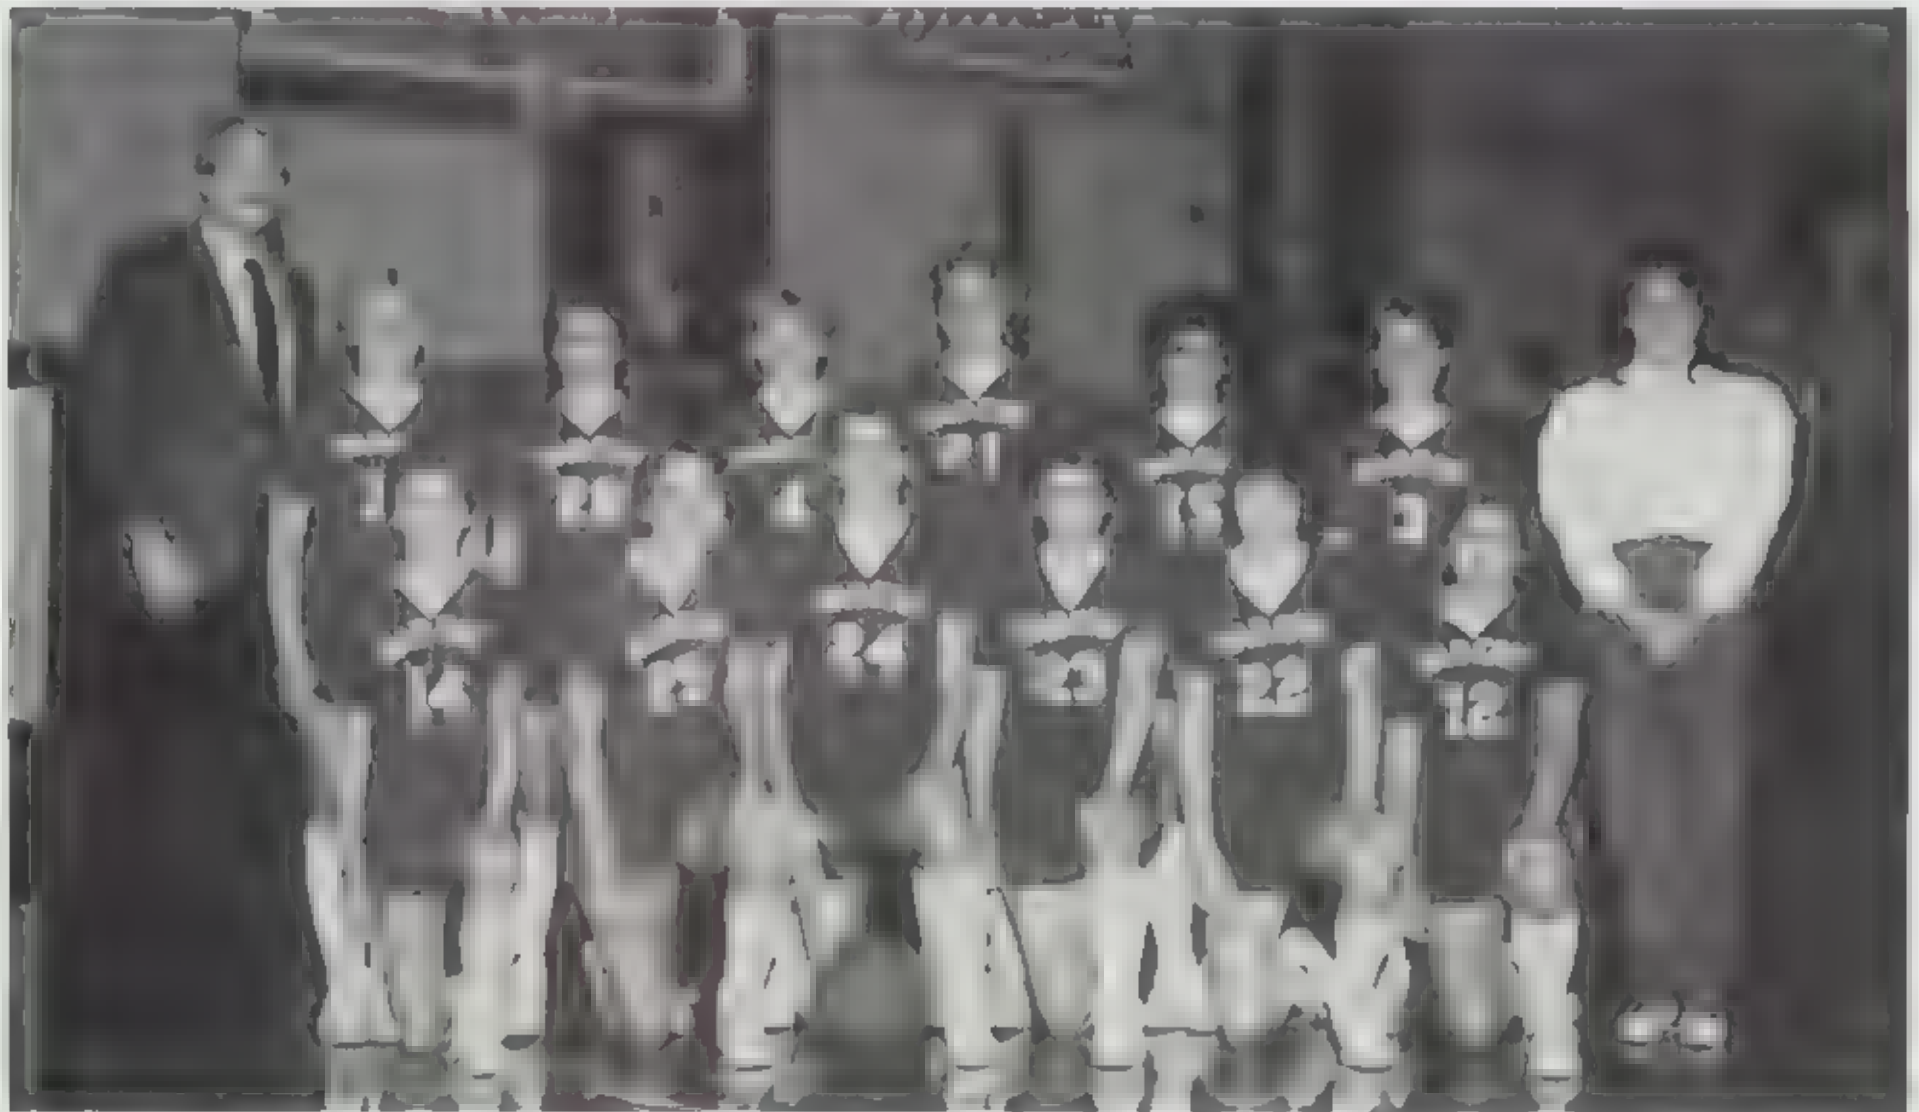

The key to the season was a come from behind 36-34 victory over McBain Christian, a traditional powerhouse in Class D.

The team learned a lot during the season as the young Sabers, a freshmen oriented team, did well against all their opponents, who possessed primarily sophomore oriented teams.

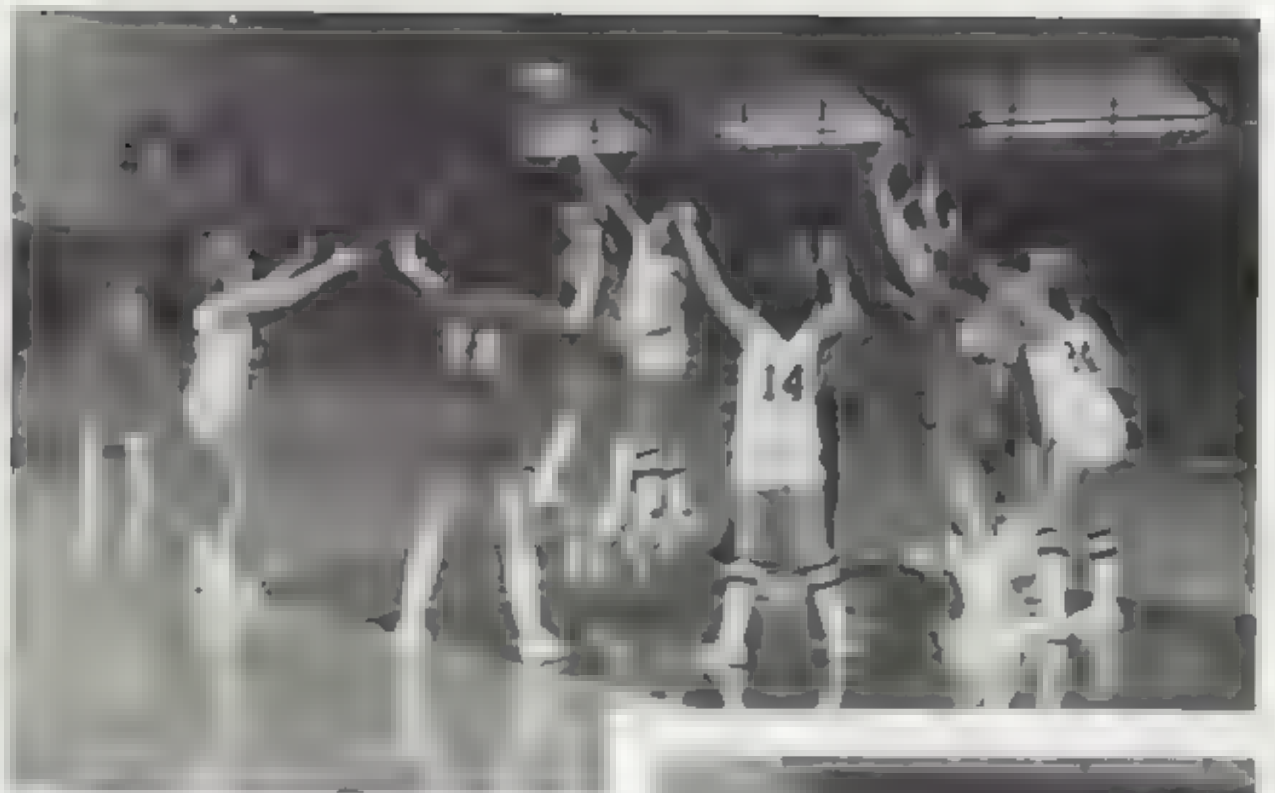

Mr. Bernard, the first year coach for the jayvee girls, said he was "very pleased and encouraged by the progress they had made" by the end of the season.

Tennis Brightens

Quality Season

Led by seniors Debbie Brzezniak, Sandra Chycinski, Beth Hornkohl, Melanie Swiatlowski, and Lisa Tabaczka, the 1984 MCC Girls' Tennis Team improved on its 1983 record. That improvement started in the very first match against MHS where MCC captured twen-

Saber Wrestlers Lack Numbers Not Heart

The 1984-85 Saber Wrestling Team was small in number but surely not in quality, qualifying five of the eight members for the Michigan Class D State Competition. Senior Co-captain Chris Kubacki and sophomore Brad Brzezniak led the way at State, both finishing at fourth place. The other three members who wrestled at State but did not place were junior Co-captain Jim Wygmans and sophomores, Mike Wrzesinski and Bill Maue.

Led by head coach Russ Wrzesinski and Pat Williams, the team averaged 88.5 points a tournament during the regular season and were runners-up in the Mid-Michigan Wrestling Conference for the second year in a row.

Cheerleaders Keep Spirit Alive!

The 1984 Varsity Football Cheerleaders, under the direction of first year coach Mrs. Jenny Smith, began practicing during the summer to get ready for the fast approaching football season. They weren't able to attend a summer camp, but they did take advantage of a one day clinic held at Ferris State College, where they picked up ideas for new sideline cheers.

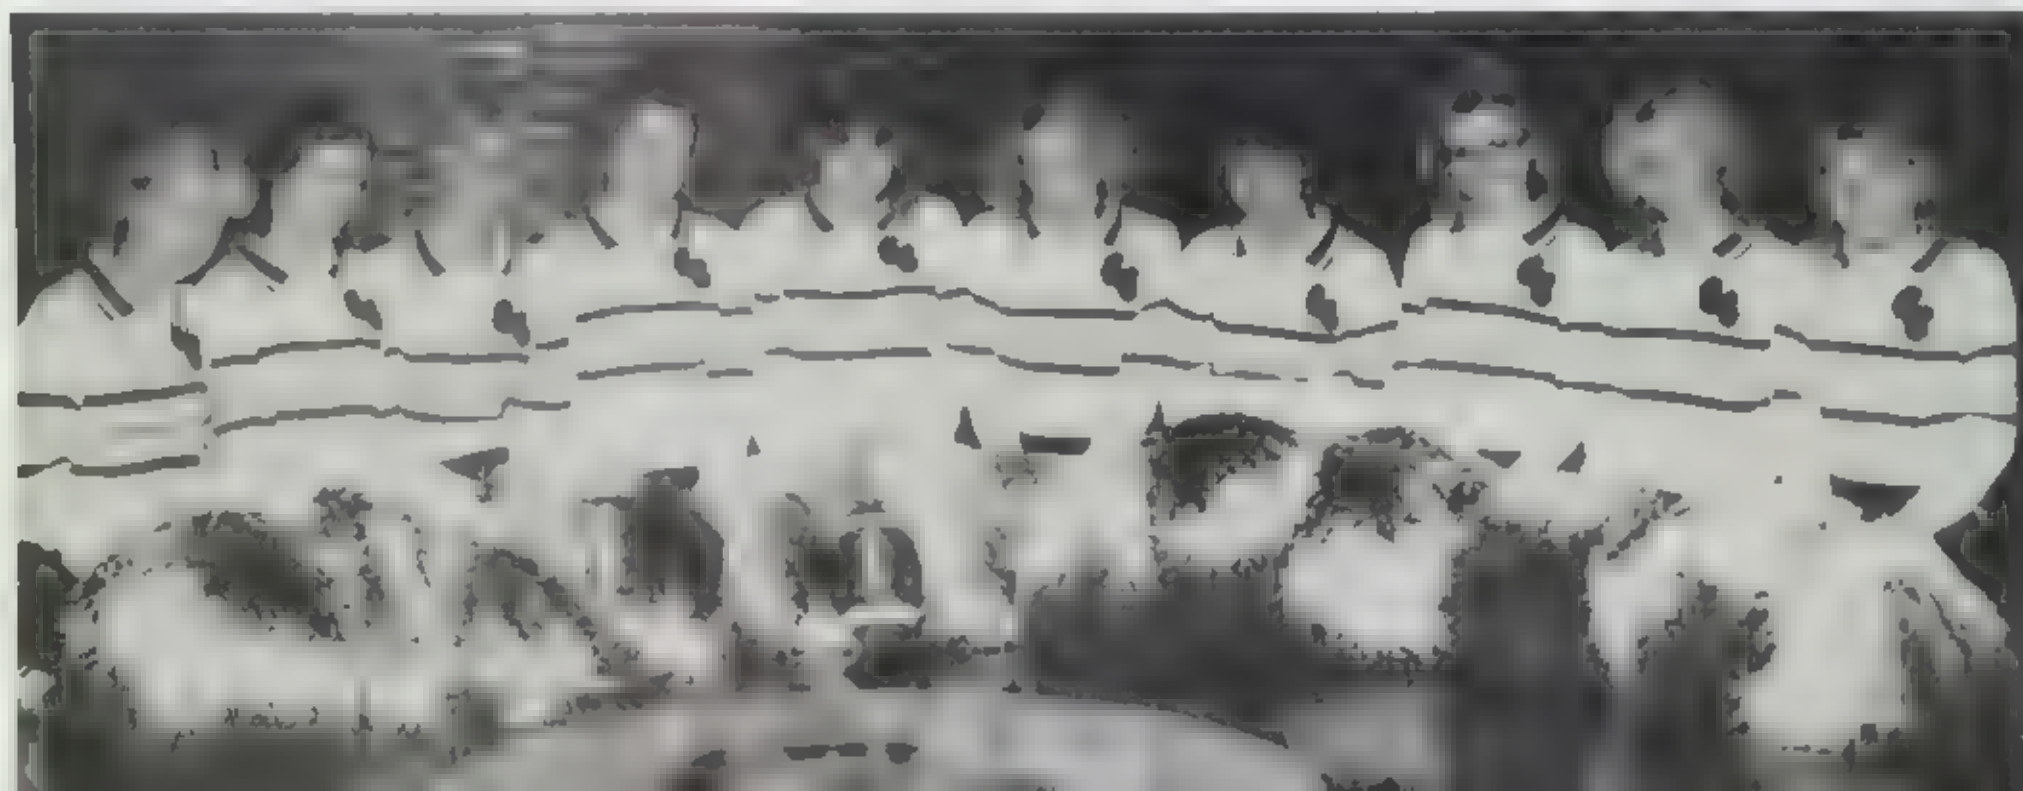

Once the season began, the girls were busy making locker posters, decorating the football players' locker room and preparing for pep assemblies. Full of enthusiasm, the girls made the 1984 football cheerleading season a success.

Top left, the Varsity Cheerleaders jump forward to victory. Top right, Jean Kaminski, Kelly Bennett and Jodi Miller have a good time during the homecoming parade. "Let's do it!" This phrase explains what the 1984-85 Boys' Varsity Basketball Cheerleaders did, and they did a lot! Before the season even started, the girls were already planning pep assemblies and trying to discover new ways to keep the Saber Spirit up. Although this year's basketball cheerleaders did not attend a summer camp, the girls still performed their flashy movements and stunning mounts.

This year's squad consisted of four seniors and six juniors with one returning veteran. These cheerleaders were proud to be a part of the Saber basketball action and will return again next year, with more spirit and enthusiasm!

Saber Boys' Basketball Regains District Title

The 1984-85 Saber Varsity Basketball Team, consisting of six seniors, seven juniors, and one sophomore, ended the season with a record of 15 wins and 9 losses. After starting off the season on a bad note losing six of their first ten games, the coaches and players put the right lineup and plays together and won eleven of their last fourteen games. Three of those games brought them a District Trophy when they defeated Brethren 71-39, county rival, Onekama 74-57, and Freesoil 88-46.

From there the Sabers went on to the Wexford County Arena in Cadillac to play the Bear Lake Lakers in the first game of the regional tournament. The Lakers had beaten the Sabers by 11 points in both regular season games, but the Sabers were confident and knew they had a great chance to win, yet they came up short losing to the Lakers 74-64 and ending a fine season.

Gary Kuczynski, the top role player, was the leading scorer with 395 points on the year, most on the team. He also led in rebounds with 192, in steals with 54 and in free throw percentage at 70.5%. Shawn Markham had the leading field goal percentage at 64.7% which was outstanding for a sophomore. John O'Hagan was the top play maker of the year with 135 assists, almost tying the school record, which is 12 in one game, getting 11 in two different games. Coach Niesen summed up the season when he said, "This year's team took it's time finding its own identity, but once they became comfortable with their talents, they played excellent team defense, and became the school's best shooting team ever," — 48.2%.

Above, the Saber team and cheerleaders smile after achieving the district title. In order to gain this title, the Sabers defeated Brethren 71-39, Onokama 74-57, and Freesoil 88-46. These three victories paved the way to the district title and made the Sabers and their fans extremely happy. Left, Mike Janowiak and Shawn Markham wait to see if the basket is worth two points. Lower left, senior Doug Hanna jumps high to add to the Saber score.

J.V. Boys' Basketball Players Shine!

The Manistee Catholic Central Junior Varsity Boys' Basketball Team, coached by Dale Edmondson, Jr., finished its season with a winning 11-9 record. It was a team that no one thought would win many games because the best sophomore was moved up to varsity. Despite the fact that it was a team with little playing experience, the boys pulled together and managed to give up a maximum of only 17 points in any one game. The team did not consist of any one star, but perhaps a whole constellation, with six players ending the season with over 100 points each.

Catholic Central takes extra pride in winning home games, and this is evident in the team's 7-4 home record. The four losses were to: Benzie by three points, Onkama by two points, McBain by two points and Bear Lake by ten points. This season is over, but one thing is certain; this hardworking group of boys have a bright future ahead of them.

Saber Thinclads Show Desire To Succeed And Will To Win

Though small in number, the 1985 boys' and girls' track teams showed, throughout the season, what hard practice, immense determination, and a never ending will to win can do for motivated teams. Since both squads were led by two newly assigned coaches, Mr. Steven Daoust, boys' coach, and Mr. Anthony Nethercott, girls' coach, they had a lot to learn in what seemed like too little time.

As the season began, both teams felt like they Everyone worked harder, and with the pride appeared and once again their goals seemed

For the girls' team, Kim Nowak threw the discus 85 ft. at regionals to win a 6th place medal. Veteran Jodi Miller, captain of the girls' team, progressed remarkably in the 800 meter and mile runs.

The 1985 track season also saw the last performances of the boys' senior captains Kevin Krause and Kevin Skipski. The dedication and leadership they displayed helped enormously to bring about a winning attitude on both the teams and make a memorable season.

Baseball Stars Bring Home District Championship!

The 1985 Varsity Baseball Team ended its season with a 16-8 record under new head coach, Tom Stefanski, and assistant coach, Mickey Majchrzak.

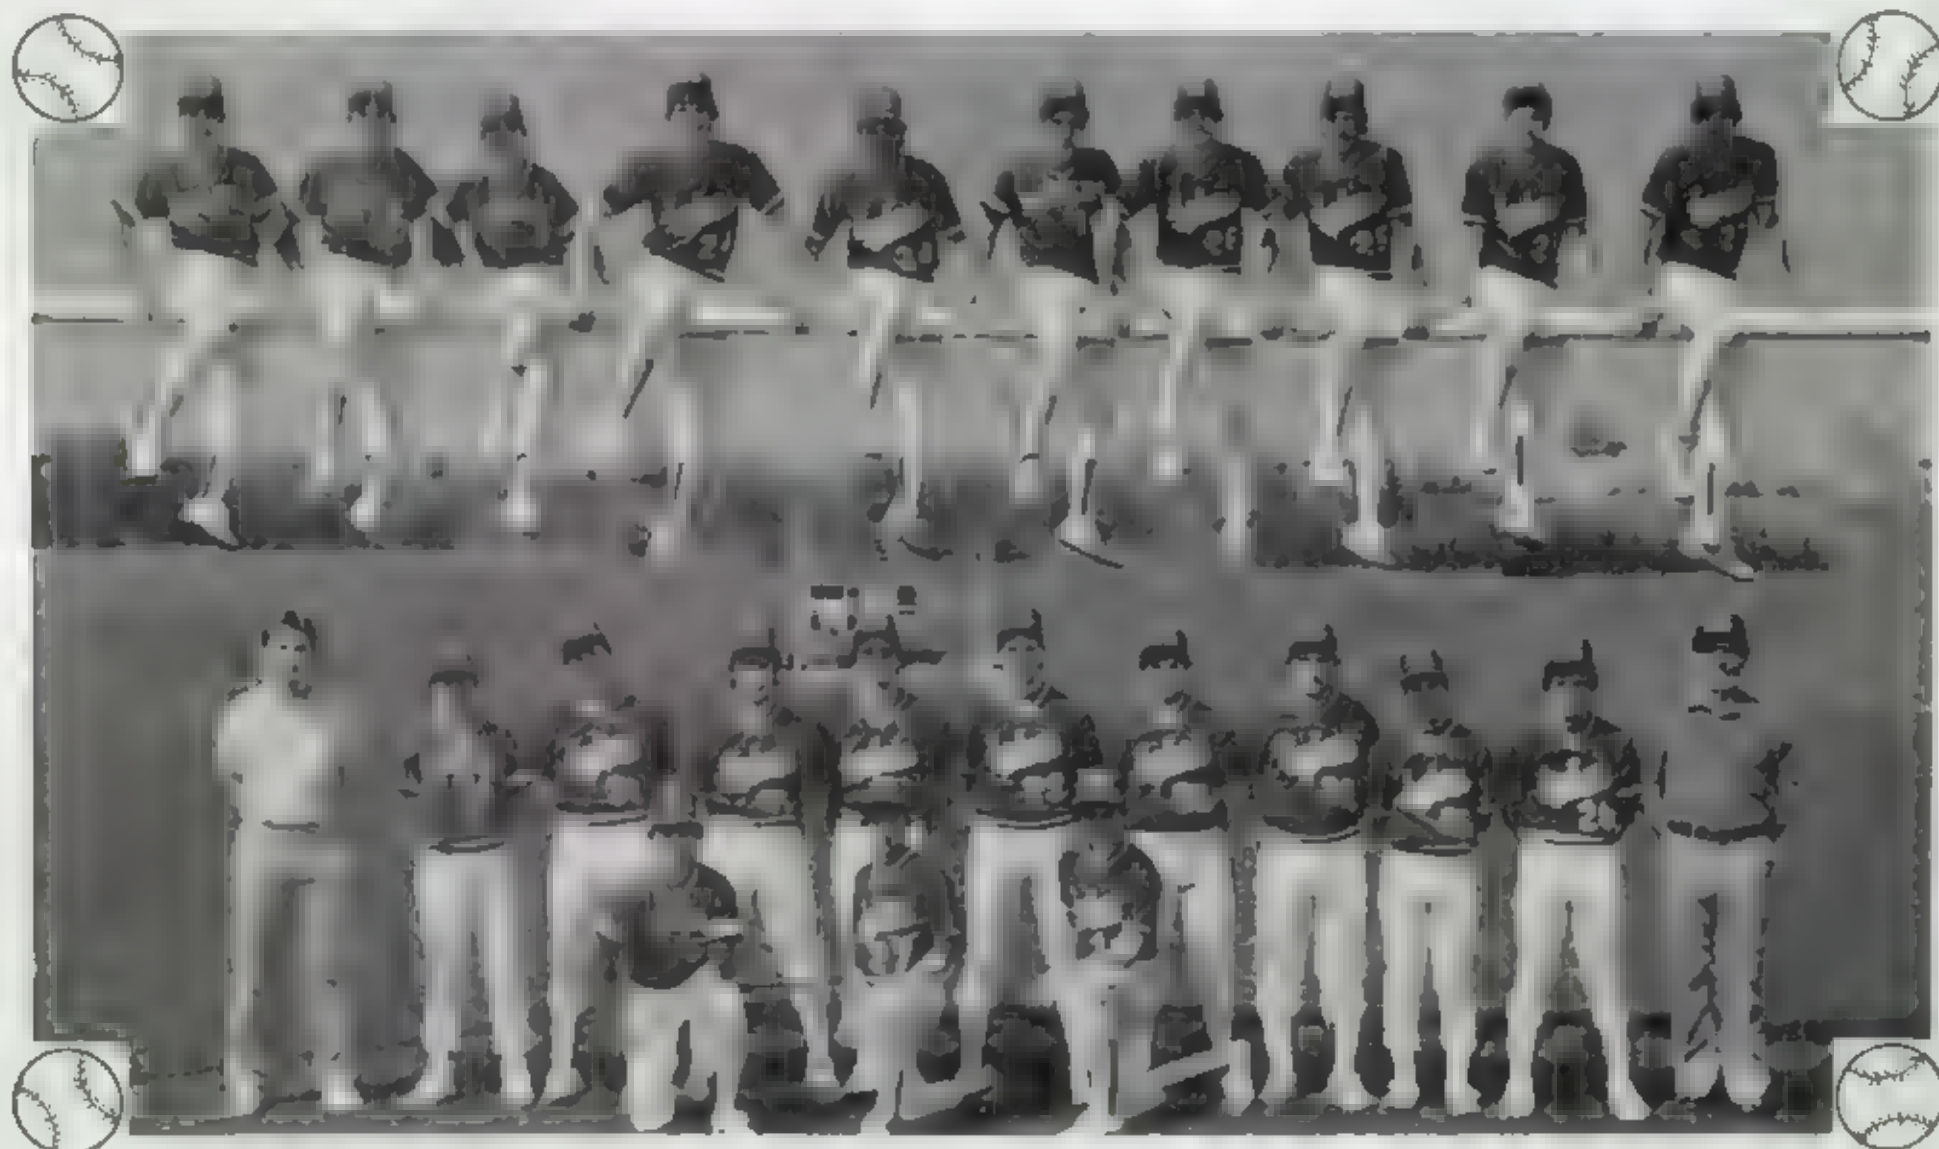

The Sabers then defeated Free-soil in the pre-district game and advanced to the districts beating Baldwin and Pentwater to capture the district title. Advancing to regional play at Grand Valley State College, they lost a heart breaker to Marion 6-2 and ended their "super" season.

The Saber team was led through the year by the five seniors, John O'Hagan, Jeff Bladzik, Keith Hughes, Dave Raczkowski, and Craig Skiera, who showed good leadership and outstanding playing ability. Trying to improve the 4-7 record of last year did not seem difficult as the team had lots of experience and plenty of chances, having a total of 24 games. The juniors on the team played an important role having to play in most games and be there to back up the seniors. The freshman and sophomores were a contributing part of the team and were available when needed, helping to make the team well-rounded.

Even though the records show that the junior high teams struggled a bit during their seasons, they learned valuable lessons that will last them a lifetime.

The football team, coached by Mr. Joseph Muenzer, had a 1-4 record under the leadership of quarterbacks, Rich Niesen and Mike Chmielewski.

Coached by Mr. Peter Solwold, the boys' seventh grade basketball team defeated Frankfort, 51-43, and won the Frankfort Tournament trophy, ending their season with a 6-2 record.

The eighth grade boys' basketball team, coached by Phil Fortier, had only one victory during their 1-7 season when they defeated rival, Onekama.

Mrs. Karen VanDrie coached both the seventh and the eighth grade girls' basketball teams. The seventh grade posted a 2-7 season on two victories from Onekama, while the eighth grade team had a 1-8 record, their victory coming against Bear Lake.

Although the teams may have had disappointing records, they showed improvement.

SCHOOL LIFE

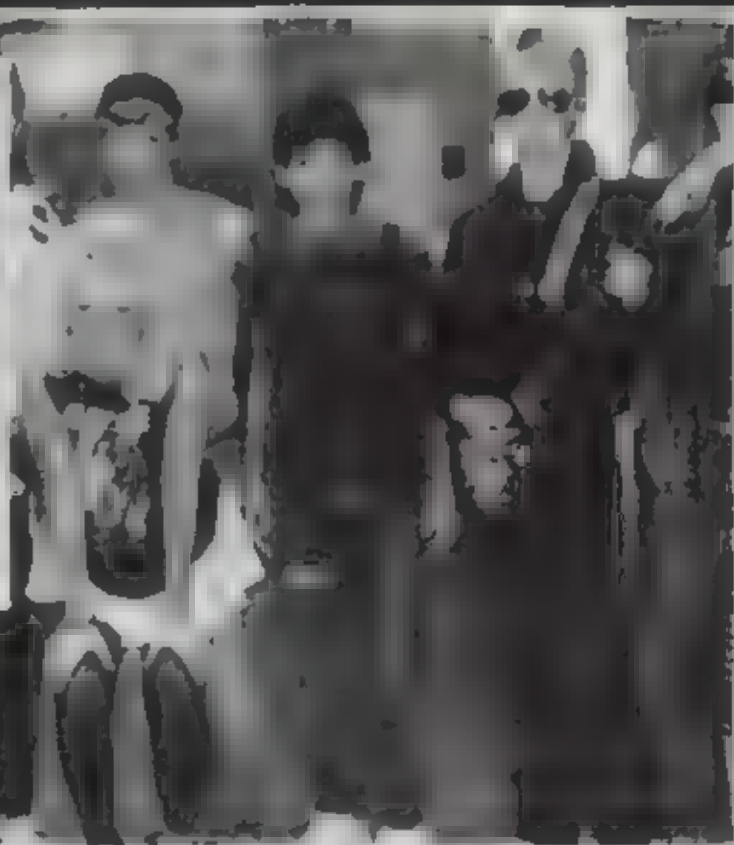

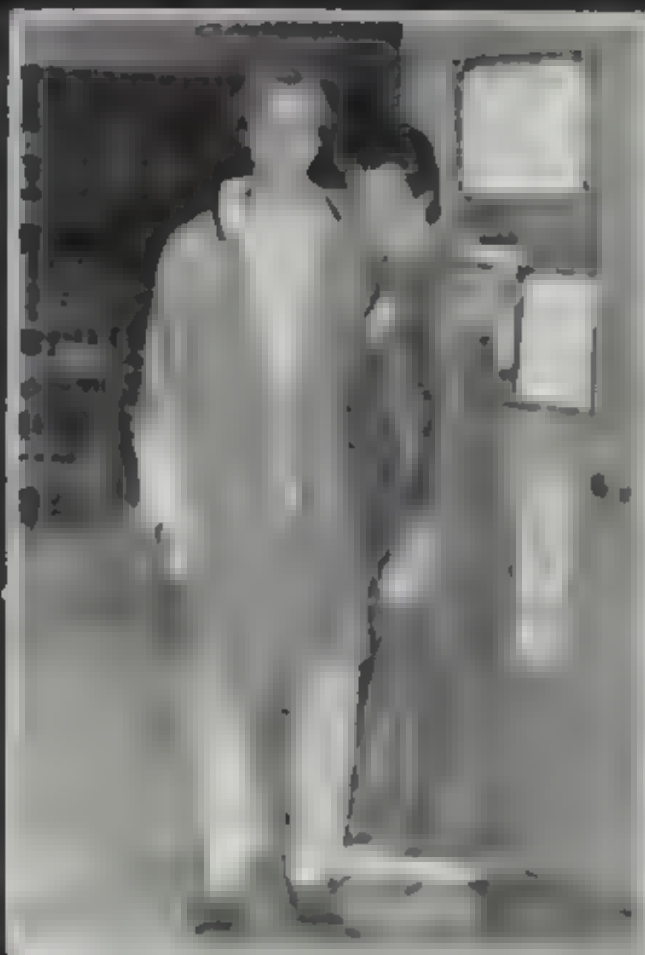

Often,
I laugh,
I lead, and I follow.
I float on a haze of lace and bow ties.
Cymbals clank
And melodious songs are heard.
Silent moments,
I bow my head in reverent prayer
And my soul is content.

Creatures

Students began Spirit Week on Pajama Day with robes, pillows and teddy bears. Next, back by popular demand, came Clash Day, during which stomachs churned at the sight of mismatched clothing. The middle of the week saw students sporting beach apparel and tossing frisbees. Favorite tunes and the aroma of Coppertone filled the air, — one could almost hear the surf! The fun continued on Heavy Metal Day as serious rockers "got crazy." The galaxy of foolishness ended with the custom of dressing in the school's colors on Red, White and Blue Day.

The 1984 Homecoming Mass theme was "More Than A Feeling." Celebrating the liturgy was Monsignor Walter Jude. The queen and her court led the candlelight procession into mass. Vases of red, white and blue flowers stood on each side of the altar. Immediately after mass, the fun began. Each class and the cheerleaders presented skits. The winning skit featured the "shamrock monster." The coaches and team captains thanked everyone for their support and invited all to the game. The evening concluded with a prayer for victory led by Father John Duhoski.

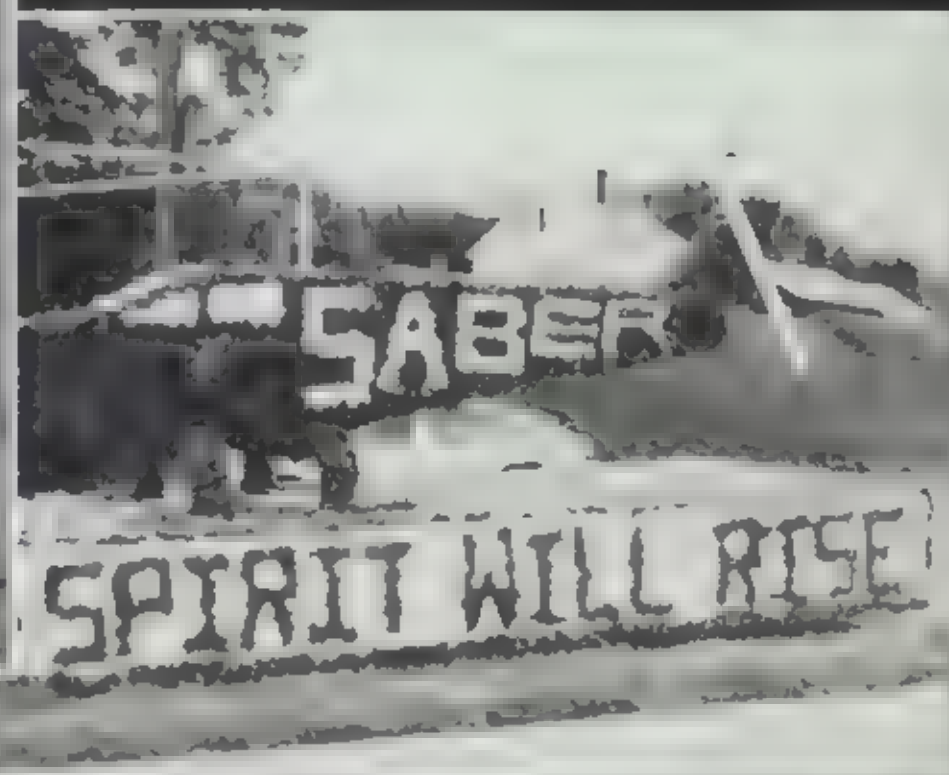

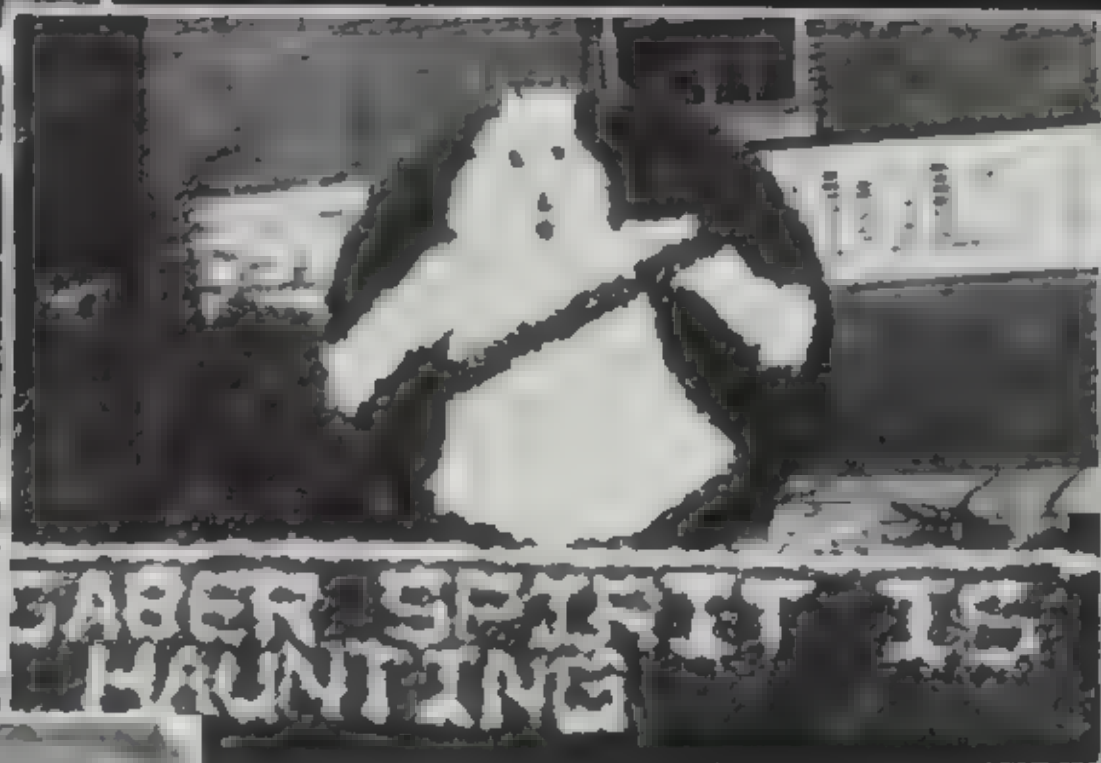

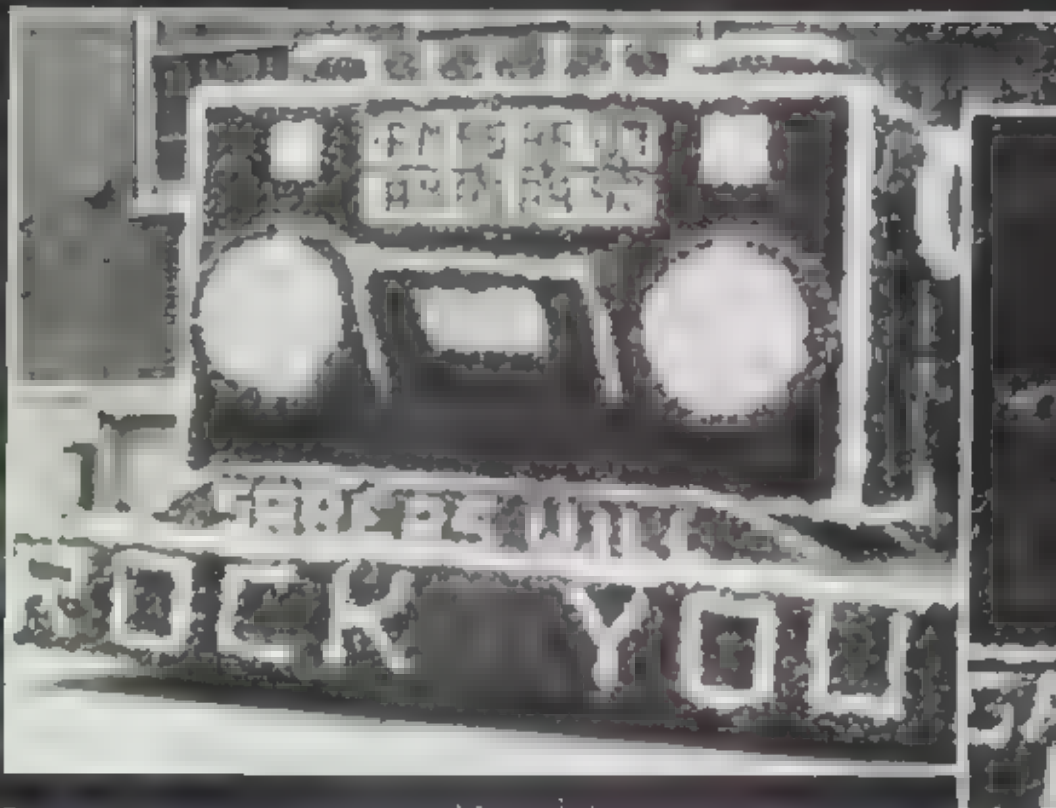

From Floats

Saber Spirit Shines

The float theme for 1984 was "Through the Years" meaning that each class could use any phrase from past years' themes. The senior class, which picked the theme "Sabers are programmed to win," captured first place by constructing a gigantic computer. For their ghostbuster symbol and the theme "Saber spirit is haunting" the sophomores were awarded second place. Freshmen took third and the juniors finished with fourth place. The outstanding floats were only one highlight of the homecoming festivities.

At Half-Time

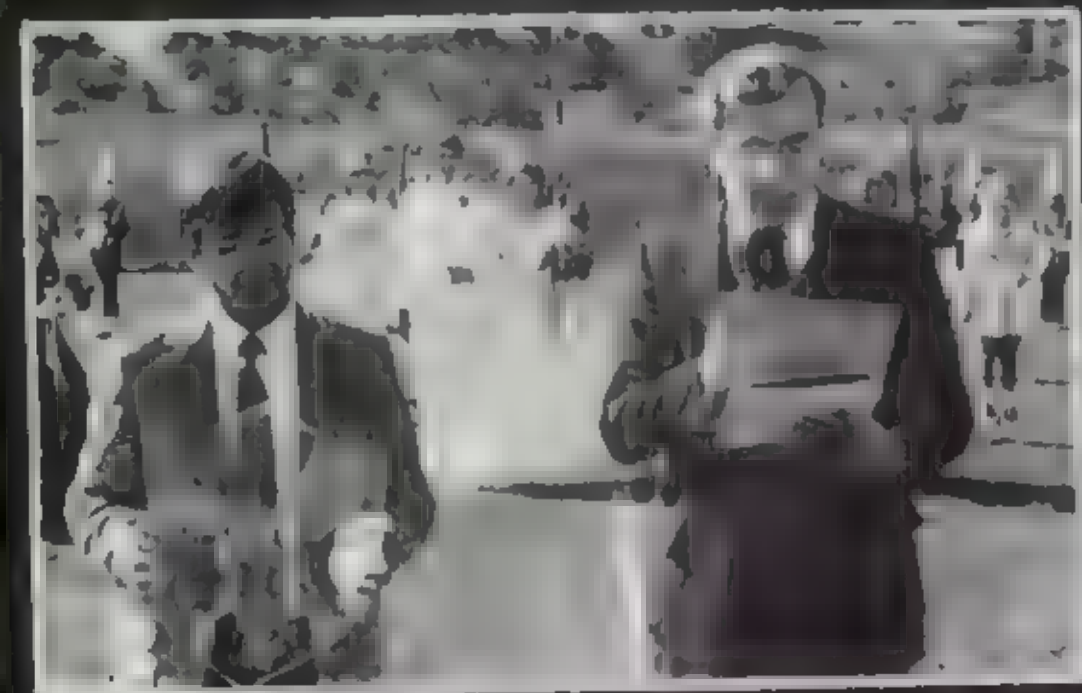

Spirit Shines

Homecoming '84 was memorable for a 36 to 0 victory over Mt. Pleasant. Not only did the football team play well, but the band marched with precision and played its music with pride.

Finally half-time approached, and Queen Kadie Worm and her court were presented. Also introduced were Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Shubert, the 1984 parade marshals. Next, Mr. Zamrowski and Mr. Niedzielski announced the class awards. The seniors captured both skill and float awards while the "rowdy" juniors took the spirit award. The entire day seemed to sparkle with excitement.

More Than

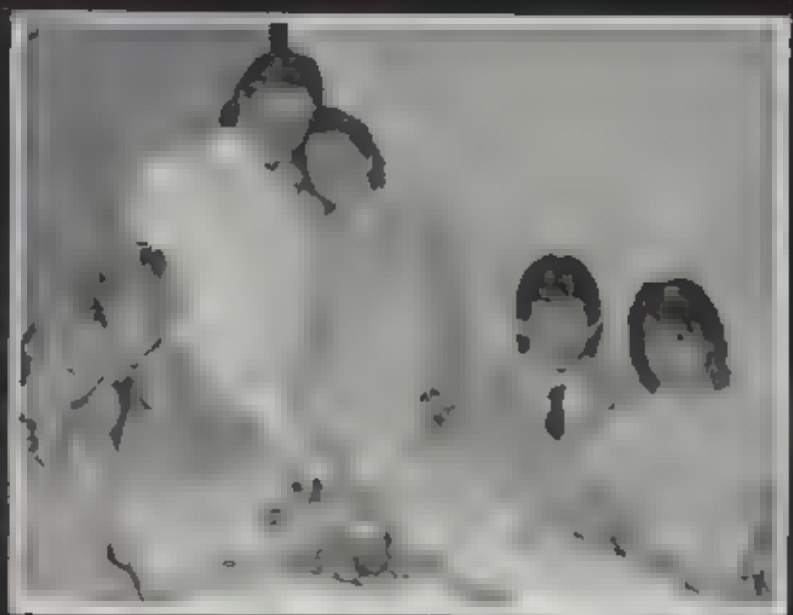

A Feeling

Bringing the exciting day of Homecoming '84 to a close was the much awaited dance. The cafeteria, decorated in the traditional red, white and blue, formed a backdrop for the girls in their long dresses and the boys in tuxedos. During the evening last year's Homecoming Queen Sherry Hansen crowned the 1984 Homecoming Queen Kadie Worm. Couples and friends danced until midnight to the magical music of the band Armageddon. As the night slipped away, the memories of that day and the spirit and dreams for coming years remained in the hearts of all who shared in Homecoming '84.

In God's Eyes

Each Friday of the school year, students and faculty have a chance to worship together at mass. Classes take turns preparing the theme, readings and petitions. Some groups organize slide presentations to make the celebration more meaningful and to bring out the true meaning of the mass.

Before Christmas students took part in a para-liturgical service at Guardian Angels Church. After walking from school, they received the sacrament of reconciliation. On Ash Wednesday students went to St. Joseph's Church for mass and the distribution of ashes. The mass and religious services are a major part of the lives of M.C.C. students.

NHS Sparkles

"In my hands I hold today; in my dreams I hold tomorrow; in my faith I hold forever!" This was the theme for the 1985 National Honor Society Induction Mass at which six new members were admitted to M.C.C.'s chapter.

The National Honor Society is a symbol of outstanding characteristics found in this select group of students. They uphold this pledge:

"I pledge myself to hold the high purposes of the National Honor Society to which I have been elected; I will be true to the principles for which it stands; and I will encourage and maintain high standards of Scholarship, Service, Leadership, and Character."

The pledge expresses the students' willingness to better their community.

Schools Week

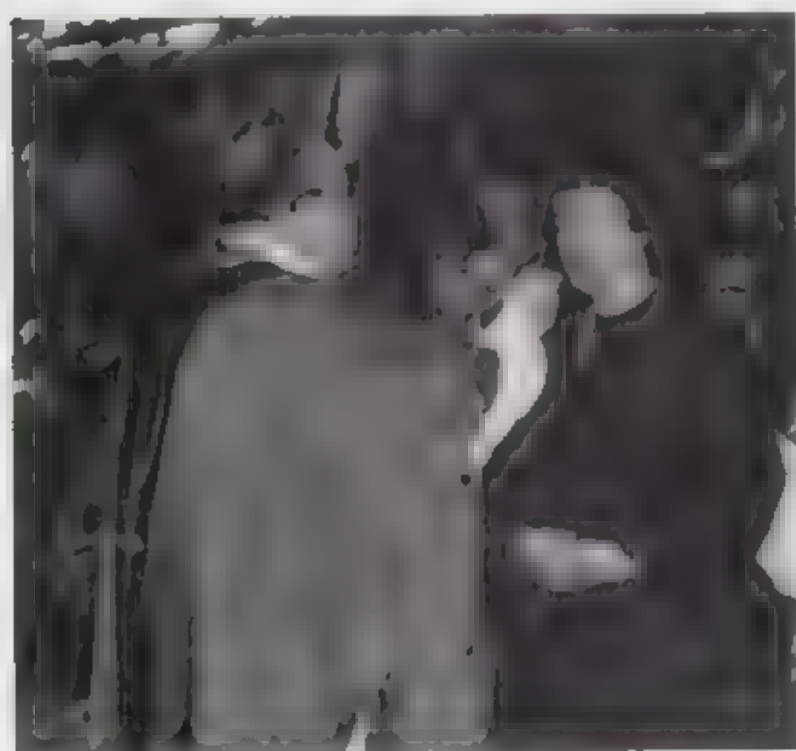

Manistee Catholic Central Schools celebrated Catholic Schools Week from March 25-29. During the week, special events took place beginning on Sunday with an open house featuring science and art exhibits along with the playground dedication.

Monday the combined bands of Manistee Catholic Central and Traverse City St. Francis High School entertained students and guests with a concert.

Students competed against teachers on Wednesday by playing "Family Feud." To the students' dismay the teachers won, but all enjoyed the game. Next the classes tried to out smart their fellow students in a game of "Trivial Pursuit." The winners were the sophomore class, who received a prize of $100. In the afternoon the student body was visited by a guest speaker from El Salvador, Mr. Victor Rubio.

Thursday the students listened to a substance abuse presentation given by Mr. Ray Keiffer and Mr. Mark Nelson. A memorial mass on Friday morning was said for deceased members of the "M.C.C. Family." In the afternoon high school students and faculty were treated to the movie "Quo Vadis." The week was enriching, teaching new values and sharing the vision of what Catholic Schools are all about.

Perfection

Being in the band requires more than musical talent. It takes a lot of time to build the perfection needed to live up to the reputation of the Saber band and to produce good concerts.

What made this year's annual Christmas Concert special was that Mr. Joseph Muenzer was featured narrating "Twas the Night Before Christmas." Also, his speech class put their school work into reality by announcing songs. Later in the year, the band combined with the Traverse City Saint Francis Band to join in the celebration of Catholic Schools Week by giving two concerts in Manistee and one in Traverse City.

Marching

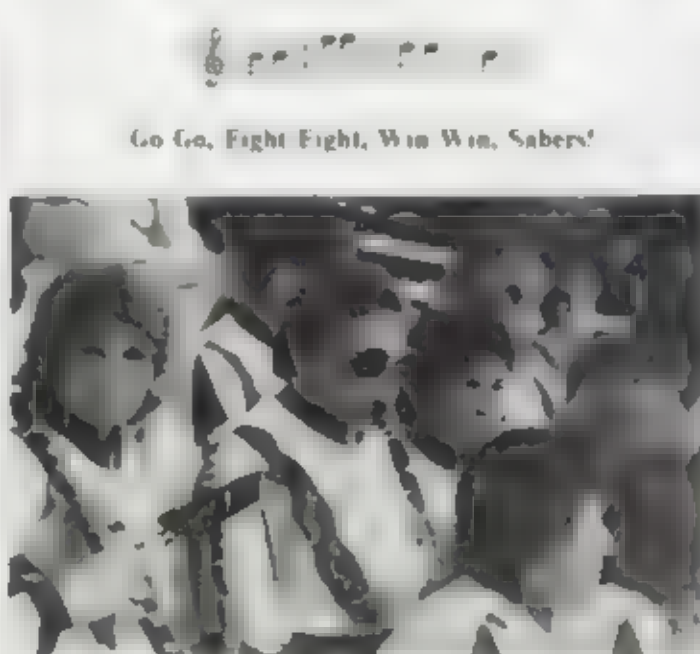

This year the Marching Saber Band tried to work, not with quantity, but quality. They put a lot of pride into what they did, and they looked good doing it.

During football season the band put on half-time performances for each of the home games and marched at an away game in Allendale. They also marched in several parades including Fourth of July parades both in Manistee and in Ludington.

All of the sacrificing, dedication, and love were truly evident as the Saber Band performed with pride, marching with their heads held high.

Has Successful Year

When the 1984-85 Student Council first met, they had a lot of work ahead of them. One responsibility was to plan the homecoming parade and halftime show. With very little money in their treasury they had the task of raising funds also. Making over $500 on one fund raiser, they were able to pay homecoming expenses and had money left to sponsor the El Salvadoran movie that the student body saw during Catholic Schools Week. They also made a sizable contribution to Little Mary's Hospitality House, a retreat for cancer victims and their families. All in all the Student Council had a very successful year.

Creativity Sparks

A Yearbook

"Work, work, work!" This is what each and every yearbook productions student said at least once during the year. The staff spent long hours of work, in and out of class, just coming up with page ideas, pictures, and captions. Putting together all the students' ideas and using creativity, the class saw the yearbook begin to take form. Luckily the class was fortunate to have the advisor, Mrs. Kalcher, assist them. Finished, Windswept '85 is a book of memories, talent and dedication, all combined within one year.

After many weeks of planning and many hours of decorating, the junior class made "Inspiration Park" a reality for Prom '85. Decorated with park benches, wishing wells, a birdbath, trees, plants, pink and lavender streamers and silver stars, the St. Joseph's Parish Center seemed to take on a new identity. Prom goers enjoyed cake and punch, and everyone danced to the music of Universe and clearly had a good time.

Inspiration"

A vital relationship with God does not eliminate the element of conflict, nor take away the necessity for struggle. It just makes the difference between winning and losing.

The 1985 Windswept was produced by a student at Mainstee Catholic Central Schools and published by Josten's American Yearbook Company in Clarksville, Tennessee. The Josten's representative was Mr. Tom Kieswetter, and the class advisor was Ms. Margaret Kalcher.

Pressrun was approximately 200 copies with a trim size of 7 $\frac{1}{2}$ x 10 $\frac{1}{2}$ inches. Body copy, headlines, and captions were set in 10 pt., 24 pt., and 8 pt. Times Roman Bold respectively. Paper stock was Cameo # 191 Gloss, and the end sheets were soft blue # 314. Designed by editor Sue Grese, the cover art was silkscreened in silver foil # 376 blue.

Senior portraits were taken by local photographers while underclass portraits were taken by Gekus Portraits. Most group photographs were taken by Ronald L. Muszynski PPM CP of Home Service Studio. All other photographs, lay outs, copy writing, art work, and page designs were done by the staff of 23 students.

With hope in our hearts
And dreams realized
Another year ends.
A part of us dies,

But we will remember
With smiles and with sighs
And always look back
With stars in our eyes.
